BIG CORN CONTESTS PROMISED THIS YEAR

Country Boys and Girls Nearly Three Hundred Strong in Two Growing Projects.

Free seed corn for the boys and girls in the Janesville Commercial club's ten ear corn contest was distributed yesterday. Each contestant was sent a pint, a bushel of Golden Glow and a half bushel of Silver King being the quantity received. This was from the university agricultural department.

There are two hundred and twenty contestants in the ten ear contest and more seed corn will have to be secured to fill the demand. Competition this year is stronger than ever, due to greater number of entries. All have not yet received their corn, but will just as soon as the new shipment, ordered yesterday, arrives here. Any Rock county boy or girl under the age of thirteen years is eligible to enter this contest. A list of twenty or more prizes will be offered by the Commercial club to those showing the best ten ears.

At least fifty older boys have sent in their entries for the acre contest. L. A. Markham made a short trip in the country on Wednesday and secured a large number of entries. It may be that the present number will be boosted considerably, thus boys have been a little delinquent about their entries and until this week no definite estimate on the number to be expected in the contest would be made.

COST OF PRINTING SUPPLIES HIGHER

In No Other Line Has Increase Been So Great Since Start of War.

The cost of raw materials in many lines of enterprise has greatly increased, owing to the war. But there is no business in which the costs have advanced as rapidly on this account as they have in the printing, engraving and lithographing business.

The cost of paper has jumped from 50 to 150 per cent. On some papers the present prices are almost prohibitive. Medium price paper, which is used the most, has advanced about 100 per cent. The manufacturers have reason for this increase in the unprecedented increase in dyes and other chemicals used in making paper. Anti-line dyes that last year cost 40 cents per pound now cost $20 per pound.

The foreign supply of rags has been practically cut off and the domestic supply has been greatly reduced by the war. To a considerable extent, rags are now taking the place of raw cotton in the manufacture of explosives. Bleach is almost impossible to secure at any price.

Every other material used in the various branches of printing has advanced in price, ink, type, zinc, copper, steel, leather, wire, gasoline and oils—all have jumped from 20 per cent to 300 per cent since the war started.

It is for these reasons that the retail printers have had to advance their prices.

JUVENILE PROBLEMS DISCUSSED AT MEET

National Conference of Charities and Correction Opens at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—Discussion of children's problems, juvenile courts, street trade, regulation, small communities, public health nurses, and other civic and sociological topics today engaged the attention of the delegates to the National Conference of Charities and Correction.

Edward N. Clapp, Ph. D., northern secretary of National Child Labor Committee, New York City, submitted a paper on "Street Trade Regulation."

In twenty-eight states of the Union there is no law governing street trading by children, he said. "In other states the provisions are of great variety, though some have followed the usual custom of following the law of some other commonwealth, without much thought as to whether its provisions were adequate."

Kentucky has established the best and most liberal standard in this country for both boys and girls in this work, the age limit for boys being fourteen and for girls eighteen years for all kinds of street trading in cities, including newspaper selling. This seems logical because it is the general standard for boys in other forms of employment, and for girls the majority of the higher age limit of eighteen years will hardly be questioned by any one. Boys under sixteen years are not permitted to work at night, which also corresponds to the restrictions of the ordinary child labor law.

The actual number of newsboys in

New York City is decreasing as shown by the record of the Newsboys' Home Club, out of whose members there are now only about twenty-five who sell papers regularly.

In Colorado the only restriction applies to girls under ten years of age, who are prohibited from engaging in any business or occupation in street or alley, there being no interference whatever with the sacred rights of boys to exploit themselves in the city streets.

"In Utah the age limit for selling newspapers is twelve years for boys and sixteen years for girls, but for some unaccountable reason boot-blacking is tacitly approved as an occupation for little girls by a reduction of the limit for them to twelve years."

New Hampshire's law shows another curious inconsistency in that girls under sixteen must not sell newspapers nor merchandise, but girls of ten may work as bootblacks.

Delaware prohibits boys under twelve and girls under fourteen from selling newspapers in cities, but fixes no age limit whatever for either sex so far as other kinds of street work are concerned.

"Florida is similarly careless; for she attempts to regulate only newspaper selling with an age limit of ten years for boys and sixteen years for girls."

New Jersey provides regulations for street trading for children between ten and sixteen, but fails to fix any minimum age limit, consequently children under ten are legally even subject to the regulations that apply to the older ones."

Compensation.

"You men are not so smart," jeered the bachelor girl. "It takes you an hour to sew on a button." "It does," acknowledged the widower, who had sewed and been sewed for. "But that button never comes off."—Judge.

STATE SOCIETY GETS JUDGE KEYES' PAPERS

Historical Society Receives Valuable Manuscripts Belonging to Late "Political Boss."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., May 12.—Among the most valuable collections of manuscripts that have recently been secured by the State Historical Society are the papers of the late Judge E. W. Keyes of Madison, for many years the political "boss" of the state. Milo M. Quaife, superintendent of the character of the collection, today announced that the entire history and statehood from the beginning in 1848 to the death of Judge Keyes in 1916. Much of the collection is in the form of political letters received and written. Mr. Quaife declares that there is much material of interest to national history.

The decade of the seventies is the most important one from the political point of view," says Mr. Quaife in discussing the manuscripts. "In 1870 Keyes was elected chairman of the reserved and complete account of his manipulation of the republican political machine in Wisconsin is contained in the letters of the period. The general methods of party leaders, their methods of packing their caucus, whether democrats or reformers, are interestingly illustrated.

"State politics receive full measure of attention to the very end of the collection. Mr. Keyes has gained the confidence of the railroads during his chairmanship of the state central committee, and he had done all in his power to maintain the position. Granger demands to prevent the roads too narrowly. Nevertheless he made use of the Grangers for political purposes, whenever it was practical to do so, making several canvasses of the state to estimate the strength of the Granger demands from restricting the confidence of the railroads did not terminate with his retirement from the state central committee, and during the eighties and nineties Keyes was employed with increasing frequency as the spokesman of the roads in facilitating favorable, or checking howler legislation. Suggestions for a significant chapter in road history might be gathered from the Keyes papers during this period."

Each college will be represented by two teams, one taking the affirmative and the other the negative. The affirmative remains at home and the negative will debate at another college.

The Wisconsin affirmative team will meet Minnesota while the negative will meet at Ames. The students who will represent Iowa are: Hilding E. Anderson, North Crandon; M. M. Klosser, Caswell; and W. PACIFIST LEADERS WILL ISSUE APPEAL IN CAUSE OF PEACE

Manifesto Challenging President and Ridiculing Preparedness Ready to Spring at Convention Time.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Chicago, May 12.—William Jennings Bryan and his co-workers in the peace cause—most prominent among whom are Henry Ford and Dr. David Starr Jordan—will make their supreme effort in a manifesto that is to be made public just prior to the two national conventions in June.

The manifesto will be addressed to the people of the United States, and will make a powerful appeal to the peace sentiment they believe now controls the country, calling upon the government at Washington to maintain neutrality.

There will be a strong appeal to the peace sentiment in the hearts of the individuals that is expected to temper the preparedness and war declaration that may be adopted by the two great political parties in national convention and set in force a movement against undue enlargement of either the army or the navy.

The manifesto has been written, its every word weighed and determined, and it is on its way about the country for the signatures of those who are to stand sponsor for its message.

Seek 1,000 Signatures.

The plan is to obtain the signatures of 1,000 educators, public men, professional men and those of nation-wide standing and let their signatures be used in the publication.

The manifesto opens with a lengthy quotation from President Wilson, taken from one of his peace messages to congress about eighteen months ago, in which he declares this country must not only declare a real and lasting neutrality as between the nations at war, but that it must make that neutrality absolute in fact as well as theory and make it continue unquestioned.

The purpose of the quotation from the president is read here to mean a direct challenge is being directed at him, to prove, if he will, that the peace and neutrality statements of eighteen months ago have been made good and are now in effect.

Reading the carefully arranged manifesto and the prominence given the quotation from the president, no one would fail to see the directness of the shaft aimed at the man in the White House. Nor would any trained observer fail to note the tense situation that will exist when the manifesto is made public.

Aims Master Stroke?

A direct shaft at the president just as the delegates are gathering to make a national platform and treat new national platform and brought to the fore, with the name of William Jennings Bryan first in the thousand signatures, means what may be a master stroke by the Nebraska man to induce public opinion to support his plans and not follow those of others.

Among the men associated with Mr. Bryan in the peace manifesto are Dr. David Starr Jordan of California; Henry Ford of Detroit; Rudolph Spreckles of New York and San Francisco, and such men as George B. McClellan of New Jersey.

The appeal, while aimed at the president, is also addressed to the individual American, and is intended to reach him at the home with his family. The statements following the Wilson quotation are that the individuals of this country should be neutral and impartial and the constant advocates of peace among the nations and peace among themselves.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS

INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

CHICKADEE
Parus atricapillus

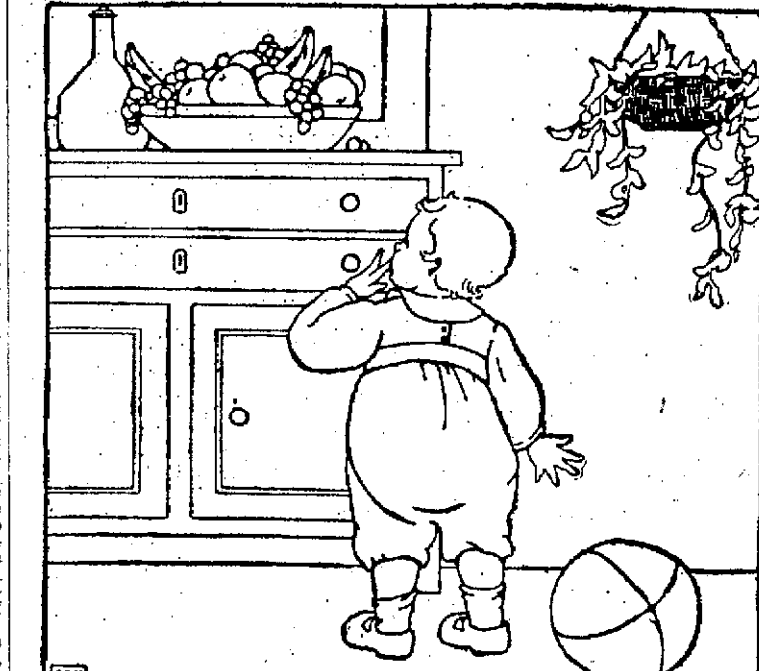

Length, about five and one-fourth inches.

Range: Resident in the United States (except the southern half east of the plains), Canada, and Alaska.

Habits and economic status: Because of its delightful notes, its confiding ways, and its fearlessness, the chickadee is one of our best known birds. It responds to encouragement, and by hanging within its reach a constant supply of sweet the chickadee can be made a regular visitor to the garden and orchard. Though insignificant in size, titmice are far from being so from the economic standpoint, owing to their numbers and activity. While one locality is being scrutinized for food by a larger bird, ten are being searched by the smaller species. The chickadee's food is made up of insects and vegetable matter in the proportion of seven of the former to three of the latter. Moths and caterpillars are favorites and form about one-third of the whole. Beetles, ants, wasps, bugs, flies, grasshoppers, and spiders make up the rest. The vegetable food is composed of seeds, largely those of pines, with a few of the poison ivy and some weeds. There are few more useful birds than the chickadees.

REGULAR FLYING CORP FOR THE INDIAN ARMY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Batavia, Dutch East Indies, May 12.—The Government has decided on the establishment of a regular Flying Section for the Indian Army. Twelve more machines of the seaplane type at present in use in the experimental flying section here are to be purchased in the United States. A special commission will be charged with the selection and approval of the aeroplanes. Five trained airmen, including naval officers, are to be sent from Holland to join the new flying establishment.

Hitherto there has been only two flying machines in Java. They are seaplanes of American manufacture, on which the first military flights were made at the beginning of November last. Unfortunately, the flying record in the Colony has since been sadly marred by the tragic accident in which the Commander-in-Chief of the Netherlands Indian Army, General Michelsen, lost his life. The choice of seaplanes as the first flying machines for India's forces arises from the fact that their first use would be to give speedy warning of the approach of a foreign enemy across the sea and information on the composition of his fleet.

BAVARIA IS CONSIDERING HAVE WOMEN TRAIN FOR WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Munich, Germany, May 12.—The various problems of war, particularly as they affect women, have been revived to an unprecedented degree in Bavaria discussion as to the advisability and feasibility of the plan, first broached in the nineties, to compel women to undergo a sort of military service just as men do. Their service, however, would consist mainly of economic, household and nursing duties.

There is unquestionably a large number of people who have become convinced that such a plan is highly desirable, for they feel that this war has brought out the fact clearly that much good effort has gone to waste through a lack of knowledge on the part of women who have willingly tried to do something for their country, and who could have been able to render great services if they only had known how.

The proponents of universal training and service for women, along one line, or another, comprise many of the most notable social workers in Bavaria.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled weather tonight and Saturday with showers in east and south portions; continued cool.

NO DILATORY TACTICS.
Organization plans for a successful campaign by the republican candidates for national and state offices is progressing rapidly. Mr. Jeffris being the first to be formally launched as an aspirant for the United States senate is not permitting grass to grow under his feet in making his plans for an active and strenuous campaign. Jeffris never did permit anything to get ahead of him if he could help it and he is evincing just the same spirit in his present battle in the people's interests he has in his own personal affairs, which speaks well for the success of his campaign.

It is not only Jeffris' campaign that is to be waged but also the preliminary battle for the conservative republicans all along the line. It is also the preliminary steps toward redeeming the state of Wisconsin from the democratic grasp and the electing of republican electors to go down to Washington to cast their vote for a republican president of the United States.

The Jeffris campaign is a curtain-raiser for the first act as it were, of the summer campaign that will have many players taking part before the curtain is rung down at the November election. The republican state central committee is behind Mr. Jeffris, the governor is behind Mr. Jeffris, and Mr. Jeffris himself is working in perfect harmony with all true republicans for the best interests of the state.

There is delay in setting the political machinery in motion and it is going to be a campaign long to be remembered. It is even possible the small boy will have a chance to see torchlight parades again after twenty years of disuse, but the spell-binder will be absent and in his place will be public speakers who talk facts and figures and address audiences of men and women who are not swayed by corner agitators.

COMING EVENTS.
It might be well to call attention to the fact that Janesville is to be one of the cities in Wisconsin to celebrate the nation's birthday—July 4th—in a suitable and sane manner. It might also not come amiss to state that the city is to have a Chauntiqua later in July at which a most delightful program will be given. Then in August comes the week of the Big Janesville Fair. One whole week that promises to be filled with enough thrills to last an entire summer will be centered on these dates. Added to this will be the Home Coming week, the same dates as the fair week. This should bring back many former residents who will be delighted to meet old friends, make new ones, and retell the stories of their activities while residents of Janesville.

When you come right down to it there are a good many former residents of this city who have not only "made good" in the big world outside their home environments, but whose names are talked of the world over. In all walks of life Janesville has sent its boys and girls, its men and women out into the world and they have done credit to the native birth. From the Pacific to the Atlantic coast you will find former residents and many of them will return for the home-coming week.

In athletic activities it is safe to say the ball fans will be satisfied with the prospects of a winning ball team and with several contenders for the city championship honors, talk of not only school leagues and ward playground leagues for the younger players, with a revival of the old Commercial league in prospect the ball fever will be at its height.

One other summer recreation feature is the river and the boating facilities. While the automobile has for a greater part taken the attraction from the river, the city will display its beauties in a launch will display its beauties and the comfortable summer cottages and club houses that are rapidly lining its banks. The river promises to be more enjoyed this year than previously, so it can be counted as one of the summer events.

LARGER COMMUNITY SPIRIT.
The typical characteristic of a progressive town is a keen sense of the gains that may come from the growth of a town as a whole. The people clearly see that if they can make their town and its business increase, every form of property and business will go ahead. Furthermore the net profit in case of such increase should be larger proportionately than the gain in gross returns. A larger business can often be done without much increase of expense, leaving a greatly enhanced net return.

In every progressive town, therefore, the merchants are willing to devote much time and thought to making the town grow as a whole. They do not relax efforts to compete successfully with each other. But the gains that come from the growth of the town as a whole come easier and with less effort.

The first essential is to develop an intense feeling of community loyalty. It should be realized that everyone who owns a business or any real estate is going to gain by the growth of the town as a whole. Also everyone who has a job in a growing town is a gainer, though this is not always realized. In a growing town, employers are better able to pay good wages, and there are more opportunities for advancement.

The first step in community loyalty is to patronize the home merchants. The man who sells supplies to your town is in a sense your business partner. He is working for ends that are vital to your success. Every purchase made at home helps on the town, helps make your property, your business, your job, more valuable, and hopeful of larger opportunity. Spend your money so as to make your home town grow, rather than so as to make some other place grow.

A GOOD TIME TO ADVERTISE.
The hackneyed old phrase, "Now is the time to advertise," has special pertinence just now. It is in times of prosperity that money is made. As the demand for big crops, demand for war munitions, etc., the country has reached a high stage of prosperity. There is plenty of money in circulation, and people are in a mood to buy liberally.

In such times as these advertising pays more generously than ever. The people are hopeful and confident, disposed to anticipate their wants, to buy the best qualities, and to purchase things they would not have felt they could afford a year ago.

Merchants ought to be able to double their trade under these conditions. But they can't get it by waiting for it. They must attract more attention, take a little more newspaper space, describe their goods a little more fully. A great deal of money will be spent in the next six months, the bulk of it with those dealers who court the most publicity.

After ordering the grocery man to drive out a mile and a half with a yeast cake, the members of the Women's club listen to papers showing that the increased cost of living is due to the trusts, tariff, the war, and the increased gold supply.

Almost any politician can get public improvements and secure the credit for them, but he will have difficulties about getting re-elected, unless he can borrow the money and make posterity pay.

There are ten people who walk for everyone who rides, and yet you never hear of a dinner given for the promotion of good sidewalks, with speeches, toasts, and champagne.

When spring comes the city man longer for the country and the scent of the flowers. What he would get if there, would be the whiff of the phosphate.

When the rural credits bill becomes law, most of us will then be able to borrow money to pay the loss on a back yard garden.

If the men were running the houses the dirt would be swept under the sofa, where it wouldn't make all this bother of house cleaning.

Not merely does the weather promise to be unsettled for some time, but the millinery bills will be so for many weeks to come.

When a man gets the bill for his wife's new millinery, there is no doubt in his mind that spring has really come.

After claiming that they don't like publicity, some girls will come down town wearing white shoes with 15-inch tops and a short skirt.

The free seed distribution will nev-

PYROX

"Pays for Itself Over and Over"

Mr. A. M. Loebsch of Ottumwa, Pa., writes: "I used Pyrox for apples—spraying about the time the apples were formed and before the cups closed. It is so easily prepared and so pleasant to apply and so effective that it is a fine thing to use. Pyrox pays for itself over and over."

Such is the verdict of every fruit grower who has used Pyrox. It brings large, luscious fruit where only a wormy, worthless crop grew before.

Ask us for the new Pyrox booklet, and use Pyrox on every fruit tree you have. Pyrox also kills potato bugs and blights. Sticks like paint.

About the man who wanted to become president.
He had no fears of microbes for they camped not on his trail.
The law never worried him a bit because there was no jail.
He owed no tailor's bill because he didn't dote on style.
The cost of living was a joke at which he well could smile.

He worried not about the trust nor yet the power of wealth;
There never was a single thing, the matter with his health.
He had no furnace to stoke and no hard coal to buy;
The climate in the garden was as balmy as July.

There was no squeaking phonograph to interrupt his sleep.
There was no barker shops quartets to sing "Down in the Deep."
No canvassers for books dropped in to occupy his time—
Old Adam must have led a life that simply was sublime.

The Two Piece Suit.
Fernando bought a two-piece suit. It cost five bones and was a bean. He'd gazed upon it o'er and o'er. Upon a dummy in the store. 'Twas rich and run as to style; It could be heard for half a mile. He wore it to a picnic and the girls all called it simply grand. Till suddenly there came rain. That nearly drove the lad insane. Enough to drive a man to drink. It was to see those garments shrink. The pant legs raced up to his knees, it was a fine go-as-you-please. The sleeves up to his elbows shot; Fernando quickly quit the spot. And hurried home right in the squall for fear he'd have no clothes at all. He burned the suit at fearful pace; It was a real exciting race. It seemed as though the clothes would win. Our hero staggered home, all in; And when at last he reached the house,

Having his teeth blown out by an explosion was the penalty a Newton county (Mo.) miner paid for "going back on a job" an ancient indiscretion where miners wonder why a blast does not let go and return to learn the reason. This, however, is not supposed to connect in any way with the discovery of a tooth weighing in gals pounds which was picked up recently in Indian Creek in Monroe county. Another find.

My Dentist Says I Have Pyorrhea

And that it is caused by uric acid; that it is constitutional, etc., and that nothing can be done."

Time and time again such statements have been made, all of which are now being absolutely and positively proven to be old fashioned and out of date, by hundreds of modern, progressive dentists.

When local irritation is removed, and the New School Treatments administered, it follows that a cure, or perfect comfort, is the result of such treatment.

No matter what phase of faulty metabolism exists—in every case, if treated before the tissues are so hopelessly destroyed, that the teeth are ready to drop from the mouth, the cure comes rapidly and certainly.

These old fashioned teachings, about uric acid, faulty metabolism, constitutional causes, etc., give to the indolent or dishonestly wavering dentist a well earned excuse to fold their hands and join the "nothing-can-be-done ranks."

CHAUTAUQUA PLANS ARE NOW MATURING

Officials Elected Yesterday.—Arrange Ticket Selling Campaign.—Will Have Junior Chautauqua.

A. S. Krotz was chosen president of the Janesville Chautauqua association at a meeting of the board of directors held yesterday. The Rev. George Ed-ward Parise was re-elected secretary and C. H. Wadick was re-elected treasurer. E. T. Fish was again appointed as grounds superintendent. Mr. Weir-ick will work in co-operation with Mr. Fish on grounds arrangements.

The chautauqua will be held this year, July 20-25, on Milton avenue near St. Mary's avenue on property owned by J. E. Lane and offered to the association for use during chautauqua week. The site was formerly the land known as the Jenkins property.

Plans already formulated are to sell $2,000 worth of tickets to insure a financial success. There are now pledged to be taken six hundred and fifty tickets, making it necessary to dispose of about seven hundred more to secure the amount desired. The ti-ville business men expect to have a week. A plan to offer two hundred dollars, to be pro-rated among Janes-ville church or societies, for prizes in a ticket selling campaign, has been formed. Figuring the number of tickets to be sold, each ticket disposed of under this plan will be a return of twenty-five cents to the church or society participating. The feature is at-tractive and it is thought that it will work successfully.

Experiences of last year have caused the directors to reach the decision to reserve a block of two hundred seats daily. Season tickets for these re-served seats will sell for fifty cents or ten cents for each chautauqua pro-gram. The season tickets for all mem-bers are to be sold at one dollar and one-half.

A Junior Chautauqua is to be held in connection with the event for the groups. This will be in charge of a graduate of the Chicago playgrounds school. Especial attention will be given to residents of the country and to mothers with small children. A special tent is to be erected and par-ents can leave their children with those in charge and be assured that their youngsters will be well taken care of while they are away.

LEARN HOW TO SWIM

In a Series of Ten Articles Famous Expert
Louis De B. Handley of the N. Y. A. C.
Gives Advice to Beginners and Veterans.

Article No. 6.—Competitive Swimming.

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.
(Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.)

An ambitious youngster who once asked a prominent coach of swimming what he should do to make his mark in the competitive field thought it quite a joke when he was told that the chief requisite was to learn to swim. Yet the jesting remark really embodies the whole secret of success in racing, if its true sense is understood, for there is a strong tendency among novices nowadays to enter the game totally unprepared before a correct stroke has been mastered. The result of this practice is that even youths of unusual natural ability often fail to rise above mediocrity, because the unavoidable faults incurred by beginners, which might easily be eliminated in the early stages, eventually become chronic from habit and so are never completely eradicated.

The aspirant to aquatic honors should bear in mind that form is indispensable to fast swimming and that it can be acquired only by patient and painstaking work done at moderate pace. The young recruit who becomes a contestant as soon as he finds he can thrash wildly, in any old way, over a fifty yard course and thereby confines his efforts solely to sprinting can hardly hope to attain championship rank.

hard spring and outward, not downward, direction. Stand on the take-off with feet together, toes bent over the edge, body leaning forward slightly from the waist, arms lowered at the sides; then at the signal jerk the arms back and up, simultaneously rising on the ball of the feet, and as this double movement thrusts you forward bend the knees and swing the arms vigorously ahead, launching yourself out almost horizontally, so that you will strike the water slant, sinking only a few inches and making it possible for you to come promptly to the surface by merely lifting the arms and arching the back. Hold the legs and feet outstretched and rigid until fully covered, and don't start swimming at once, but wait until the required momentum begins to wane; then take the first stroke with arms only unless you use a very narrow crawl thrash, for any marked opening of the legs produces a noticeable check, acting like a brake.

Probably the most important feature of turning is the approach, for unless the swimmer reaches the wall or board with top arm in front and ready he cannot hope to get around quickly. He should therefore learn to adjust his last few strokes so as to come up in the required position. At the point of spinning about the body must be on its side, in order to allow a deep breath to be taken immediately before lowering the head to the push-off; then as the Good Comedy Tonight.

The international comedienne May Robson will be seen at the Beverly tonight in a screaming funny farce, "A Night Out." This is one of the best comedies ever seen on this program and is produced by the Vitagraph company.

Double Feature on Saturday.
A double feature will be presented on Saturday at the Beverly. The drama is "Honor's Altar" with the popular star Bessie Barriscale. The comedy is a Keystone featuring Chas. Murray in "Fido's Fate."

CITY WORKMAN HAS FINGER SMASHED WHEN PIPE FALLS.
Michael Riley, residing on North Pearl street, an employee of the city water department, had the third finger of his left hand painfully crushed at the upper joint when a heavy pipe fell on the digit. Riley was digging near a hydrant on Pleasant street to take out a piece of pipe. In lifting the heavy piece out of the hole, he placed his left hand on the brick sidewalk and the pipe slipped, falling on the end of his finger. Medical attention was given him by Dr. G. W. Pfeiffer, who dressed the finger and allowed the man to be taken to his home.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Hattie Burks, who in shortly to appear in "The Sin of Men" like so many of the motion picture stars, comes from the south. She confesses that her earliest ambitions were of the stage and that when but two years old she robbed her savings bank and went to a nearby town and tried to join a company.

H. BOSWORTH HAS THE PUNCH.
Robert Leonard is going around with a black eye these days. No, girls, he wasn't in a fight, but this is how it happened. After a strenuous day, Hobart Bosworth and Robert Leonard decided a little handball would do them no harm, so they journeyed to the Los Angeles Athletic club. In a game of handball Bob Leonard ran after the ball on Mr. Bosworth's side of the court and Bosworth accidentally struck Mr. Leonard in the eye with his fist, knocking him out for five minutes. After Mr. Leonard recovered consciousness he said: "I could only get as much punch in my stories as Hobart Bosworth has in his right hand I would never have to worry."

PLANS NEW GOWNS WHILE SHE RESTS.
Bessie Barriscale, the star, is enjoying a short vacation. She recently concluded her performance in a new subject in which she will be seen and is devoting her time now to resting and superintending the making of a number of beautiful new gowns for her next appearance. Miss Barriscale's next appearance will be as the star of "Not My Sister."

Marie Doro is now taking time to decorate her new home near Doro and her husband, Elliott Dexter, have taken one of the show places of Hollywood, and are at present supervising the replanting of the garden.

It can readily be seen that the tobacco exporter is not having clear sailing. One shipper complains that he has goods lying at Baltimore since December on which freight was prepaid and ocean lines cannot as yet give a date for shipment. With the submarine scouting the seas, from war ships blockading the ports of Germany and Holland, the exporter might better sit tight and wait for the war clouds to lift if he is wise.

TABLOID MUSICAL COMEDY AT APOLLO

This Week's Bill Includes Four Feature Acts and Pictures.

"The Joy Riders" put over a mighty clever and catchy act at the Apollo last night. It was not the only good act either for the other three give ample support to this headliner. There are seven people in the act, special scenery, appropriate costumes, rich comedy and excellent voices. Seldom has Janesville seen as good an act as this for its size and it goes without saying that it went over last night.

Dale and Weber make up a refined sister team pleasing both with their singing and their violin playing. They have the ability to enter in and make good use of it. Jack Eppel is a marvel with the lariat, giving an exhibition superior to the usual wild west stuff. He is light on his feet and artistic in his work. Yvonne, the Italian girl accordionist, is a very good player though she lacks power to bring out the volume that is possible with a man.

This bill will be repeated tonight, Saturday and Sunday.

Nancy O'Neil Shown in Difficult Dual Role in "The Flames of Johannis."

"The Flames of Johannis" nonpareil story evolved from "The Flame of St. John" was an example of some very good workmanship, expended upon a very improbable idea. It was excellently done, but leaves one quite cold from its weirdness. The story shows how a gypsy girl, with a gypsy mother, acquires such a saintly disposition that she foolishly sacrifices herself not only at the expense of her own happiness, but that of others. It seemed very difficult to sympathize with her renunciation of the mother, who had taken her as a baby and brought her up tenderly, for the wretched hag, who had never shown the least bit of material regard for her. Nancy O'Neil, in the lead, as two distinct characters, did the parts assigned to her exceptionally well, and her supporting company also deserved much credit.

May Robson will be shown tonight in a rollicking comedy, "A Night Out," at the Beverly.

BELOIT AUTO AGENT FINED FOR SPEEDING

Ralph Saris Fined Ten Dollars and Costs for Speeding on Milwaukee Street.

Ralph Saris, automobile dealer in Beloit, through an attorney pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding on West Milwaukee street last Tuesday and paid a fine of ten dollars and costs, amounting to $12.40 this morning. The complaint was made out by Roy Worthington, police officer, who Saris raced up Milwaukee street shortly before midnight at a rate of speed between thirty and forty miles per hour.

Through the license number Saris was located and it was found that he was wanted in court this morning on a warrant. The Beloit dealer left his car "at home" this time and came to answer the complaint via the inter-urban car. There was another machine behind the car driven by Saris going at an equal speed, but this auto driver did not have a rear light and the officer could not get "his number."

The Daily Novelette

The Big City.
Though skies be dark,
Reflecting gloom,
Through mall and park
The spring hats bloom.

'Twas Reuben Tossie's first visit to the big city, and he was mightily interested in all the doings.
"Gosh all hemlock, there's a policeman. Look at the size of him!" he thought. And he went up to the officer, who stood six foot three in the shade, and inquired, "Do you ever have any arrest criminals and people, or not?"

Just then the cop reached around and collared a man who was dipping into Reuben Tossie's pocket.
"I'll arrest this one," he said, and marched him off.

"By gum, if that ain't obligin' I don't know!" thought Reuben. "Arrestin' a man jest to show a stranger how it's done! Well, I'll be born swaggin'!"

And he proceeded on his way till he came to Fire house No. 3466.
"What dew you dew when they's a fire he asked fireman No. 67425, who was giving an auto truck a drink out of his helmet.

THE RACING DIVE.

1. The correct position for the start of a racing dive. 2. The second pose. This position is taken just before leaving the starting point, allowing the swimmer to throw himself far out into the water. 3. Position as the body strikes the water. The swimmer should land on the face and chest.

It is impossible to improve beyond a certain point while every thought is devoted to making time, and it pays in the long run to go slowly at first.

Of course the inclination is strong to test one's speed the moment one begins to show progress. But it should be checked. Proficiency is gained far more readily by rolling along easily and attempting to make every movement perfect. Such work not only develops form, but gradually makes for accurate judging of pace, one of the most valuable accomplishments to the racing man.

Let the prospective competitor stay out of the game until he can swim the furlong without tiring, and he will increase tenfold his chances of success.

As a matter of fact, even the skilled natator will profit by doing most of his training at a pace which will allow him to study his faults and correct them. Time trials should be few and far between.

The system used by some supposedly competent instructors, that of making their pupils dash a short stretch as hard as they are able, then little by little increasing the distance, is fundamentally wrong, because it gives no opportunity to better the stroke.

During the period of novitiate study should be given to starting and turning. In sprinting races a good or bad dive often makes the difference between victory and defeat, and in pool swimming ability to turn has frequently proved the deciding factor.

A starting dive should be made with

Summer days, have come at last whose influence is giving the plant beds a tremendous boost and the young plants are fast regaining the delays of the late season, says the Edgerton Reporter. Generally speaking, there seems to be an abundance of plants, and if the present weather conditions continue there is promise of their being in readiness for the fields at the usual time for transplanting. Growers are more likely to be pushed in their work of getting the soil in readiness for planting.

"But you see I don't care whether I get away with it or not. I wish you'd tell me frankly if you think I've got a chance to get away with you."

"More like if you've got a chance to get away from me!" Jim was inspired to reply. "Not one in the world, especially after beginning by making fun of me like that."

"I mightn't be so much in fun as you think," she said, regarding him with sudden gravity.

"Well," said Jim, in simple honesty, "you're a funny girl!"

Her gravity continued an instant longer. "I may not turn out to be funny for you."

"So long as you turn out to be anything at all for me, I expect I can manage to be satisfied." And with that, to his own surprise, it was his turn to blush, whereupon she laughed again.

"Yes," he said, plaintively, not wholly lacking intuition, "I can see you're the sort of girl that would laugh the minute you see a man really means anything!"

"Laugh!" she cried, gayly. "Why, it might be a matter of life and death! But if you want tragedy, I'd better put the question at once, considering the mistake I made with your brother."

Jim was flustered. She seemed to be playing a little game of mockery and nonsense with him, but he had glimpses of a flashing danger in it; he was but too sensible of being outclassed, and had somewhere a consciousness that he could never quite know this giddy and alluring lady, no matter how long it pleased her to play with him. But he mightily wanted her to keep on playing with him.

"Put what question?" he said, breathlessly.

"As you are a new neighbor of mine and of my family," she returned, speaking slowly and with a cross-examiner's severity, "I think it would be well for me to know at once whether you are already walking out with any young lady or not. Mr. Sheridan, think well! Are you spoken for?"

"Not yet," he gasped. "Are you?"

"Not," she cried, and with that they both laughed again; and the pastime proceeded, increasing both in its gaiety and in its gravity.

Observing its continuance, Mr. Robert Lamborn, opposite, turned from a lively conversation with Edith and remarked covertly to Sibyl that Miss Vertrees was "staring rather picturesquely with Jim." And he added, languidly, "Do you suppose she would?"

For the moment Sibyl gave no sign of having heard him, but seemed interested in the clasp of a long "rope" of pearls, a loop of which she was allowing to swing from her fingers, resting her elbow upon the table and following with her eyes the twinkle of diamonds and platinum in the clasp at the end of the loop. She wore many jewels. She was pretty, but hers was not the kind of prettiness to be loaded with too sumptuous accessories, and jeweled head-dresses are dangerous—they may emphasize the wrongness of the wrong wearer.

"I said Miss Vertrees seems to be starting pretty strong with Jim," repeated Mr. Lamborn.

"I heard you." There was a latent discontent always somewhere in her eyes, no matter what she threw upon the surface to cover it, and just now she did not care to cover it; she looked sullen. "Starting any stronger than you did with Edith?" he inquired.

"Oh, keep the peace!" he said, crossly. "That's off of course."

"You haven't been making her see it this evening—precisely," said Sibyl, looking at him steadily. "You've talked to her for—"

"For heaven's sake," he began, "keep the peace!"

"Well, what have you just been doing?"

"Sh!" he said. "Listen to your father-in-law!"

Sheridan was booming and braying louder than ever, the orchestra having begun to play "The Rosary" to his vast content.

"I count them over, la-la-tum-teedum," he roared, beating the measures with his fork. "Each hour a pearl, each pearl a te-dum-tum-dum—What's the matter of all you folks? Why ain't you sing? Miss Vertrees, I bet a thousand dollars you sing! Why ain't—"

"Mr. Sheridan," she said, turning cheerfully from the ardent Jim, "you don't know what you interrupted! Your son isn't used to my rough ways, and my soldier's wailing frightens him, but I think he was about to say something important."

"I'll say something important to him if he doesn't!" the father threatened, more delighted with her than ever. "By gosh! If I was his age—or a widower right now—"

"Oh, wait!" cried Mary. "If they'd only make less noise! I want Mrs. Sheridan to hear."

"She'd say the same," he shouted. "She'd tell me I was mighty slow if I couldn't get ahead of Jim. Why, when I was his age—"

"You must listen to your father," Mary interrupted, turning to Jim, who had grown red again. "He's going to tell us how, when he was your age, he made those two blades of grass grow out of a ten-cup—and you could see for yourself he didn't get them out of his sleeve!"

At that Sheridan pounded the table till it jumped. "Look here, young lady!" he roared. "Some o' these days I'm either goin' to slap you—or I'm goin' to kiss you!"

Edith looked aghast; she was afraid this was indeed "too awful," but Mary Vertrees burst into ringing laughter.

"Both!" she cried. "Both! The one to make me forget the other!"

"But which—" he began, and then suddenly gave forth such stentorian trumpeting of mirth that for once the whole table stopped to listen. "Jim," he roared, "if you don't propose to that girl tonight I'll send you back to the machine shop with Bibbs!"

And Bibbs—down among the retainers by the sugar pump works, and watching Mary Vertrees as a ragged boy in the street might watch a rich little girl in a garden—Bibbs heard. He heard—and he knew what his father's plans were now.

CHAPTER VI.

Mrs. Vertrees "sat up" for her daughter, Mr. Vertrees having retired after a restless evening, not much soothed by the society of his Lundseers. But Mrs. Vertrees had a long vigil of it.

She sat through the slow night hours in a stiff little chair under the gaslight in her own room, which was directly over the "front hall." There, book in hand, she employed the time in her own reminiscences, though it was her belief that she was reading Madame de Remusat's.

Her thoughts went backward into her life and into her husband's; and the deeper into the past they went, the brighter the pictures they brought her—and there is tragedy. Like her husband, she thought backward because she did not dare think forward definitely. What thinking forward this troubled couple ventured took the form of a slender hope which neither of them could have borne to hear put in words, and yet they had talked it over, day after day, from the very hour when they heard Sheridan was to build his new house next door. For—so quickly does any ideal of human behavior become an antique—their youth was of the innocent old days, so dead of "breeding" and "gentility," and no craft had been more straitly trained upon them than that of talking about things without mentioning them. Herein was marked the most vital difference between Mr. and Mrs. Vertrees and their big new neighbor, Sheridan, though his youth was of the same epoch, knew nothing of such matters. He had been chopping wood for the morning fire in the country grocery while they were still dancing.

It was after one o'clock when Mrs. Vertrees heard steps and the delicate clinking of the key in the lock, and then, with the opening of the door, Mary's laugh and, "Yes—if you aren't afraid—tomorrow!"

The door closed, and she rushed upstairs, bringing with her a breath of cold and bracing air into her mother's room. "Yes," she said, before Mrs. Vertrees could speak, "he brought me home!"

She let her cloak fall upon the bed, and, drawing an old red-velvet rocking chair forward, sat beside her mother, after giving her a light pat upon the shoulder and a hearty kiss upon the cheek.

"Mamma!" Mary exclaimed, when Mrs. Vertrees had expressed a hope that she had enjoyed the evening and had not caught cold. "Why don't you ask me?"

This inquiry obviously made her mother uncomfortable. "I don't," she faltered. "Ask you what, Mary?"

"How I got along and what he's like."

"Mary!"

"Oh, it isn't distressing," said Mary. "And I got along so fast—"

She broke off to laugh; continuing then, "But that's the way I went at it, of course. We are in a hurry, aren't we?"

"My dear, I don't know what to—"

"What to make of anything?" Mary finished for her. "So that's all right! Now I'll tell you all about it. It was gorgeous and deafening and teetotal. We could have lived a year on it. I think the orchids alone would have lasted us a couple of months. There they were, before me, but I couldn't steal 'em and sell 'em, and so—well, so I did what I could!"

She leaned back and laughed reassuringly to her troubled mother. "It seemed to be a success—what I could," she said, clasping her hands behind her neck and stirring the rocker to motion as a rhythmic accompaniment to her narrative. "The girl Edith and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan, were too anxious about the effect of things on me. The father's worth a bushel of both of them, if he knew it. He's what he is. I like him."

She paused reflectively, continuing, "Edith's interested in that Lamborn boy; he's good-looking and not stupid, but I think he's—"

She interrupted herself with a cheery outcry: "Oh, I mustn't be calling him names! If he's trying to make Edith like him I ought to respect him as a colleague."

"I don't understand a thing you're talking about," Mrs. Vertrees complained.

"All the better! Well, he's a bad lot, that Lamborn boy; everybody's always known that, but the Sheridans don't know the everybody that know. He sat between Edith and Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan. She's like those people who wondered about at the theater the last time we went—dressed in ballgowns, bound to show their clothes and jewels somewhere! She flatters her father,

"Why Don't You Ask Me?"

and so did I, for that matter—but not that way. I treated him outrageously!"

"Mary!"

"That's what flattered him. After dinner he made the whole regiment of us follow him all over the house, while he lectured like a guide on the Palestine. He gave dimensions and costs, and the whole b'lin' of 'em listened as if they thought he intended to make them a present of the house. What he was proudest of was the plumbing and that Bay of Naples panorama in the hall. He made us look at all the plumbing—bathrooms and everywhere else—and then he made us look at the Bay of Naples. He said it was a hundred and eleven feet long, but I think it's more. And he led us all into the ready-made library to see a poem Edith had taken a prize with at school. They'd had it printed in gold letters and framed in mother-of-pearl. But the poem itself was rather simple and wistful and nice—he read it to us, though Edith tried to stop him. She was modest about it, and said she'd never written anything else. And then, after a while, Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan asked me to come across the street to her house with them—her husband and Edith and Mr. Lamborn and Jim Sheridan—"

Mrs. Vertrees was shocked. "Jim!" she exclaimed. "Mary, please—"

"Of course," said Mary. "I'll make it as easy for you as I can, mamma. Mr. James Sheridan, Jr. We went over there, and Mrs. Roscoe explained that 'the men were dying for a drink,' though I noticed that Mr. Lamborn was the only one near death's door on that account. Edith and Mrs. Roscoe said they knew I'd been bored at the dinner. They were objectionably apologetic about it, and they seemed to think now we were going to have a 'good time' to make up for it. But I hadn't been bored at the dinner, I'd been amused; and the 'good time' at Mrs. Roscoe's was horribly, horribly stupid."

"But, Mary," her mother began, "is—"

"—is—"

And she seemed unable to complete the question.

"Never mind, mamma, I'll say it. Is Mr. James Sheridan, Jr., stupid? I'm sure he's not at all stupid about business. Otherwise—Oh, what right have I to be calling people 'stupid' because they're not exactly my kind? On the big dinner table they had enormous icing models of the Sheridan building—"

"Oh no!" Mrs. Vertrees cried. "Surely not!"

"Yes, and two other things of that kind—I don't know what. But, after all, I wondered if they were so bad. Well, then, mamma, I managed not to feel superior to Mr. James Sheridan, Jr., because he didn't see anything out of place in the Sheridan building in sugar."

Dinner Stories

Mrs. Simmons was rather taken aback by learning that her new domestic's name was the same as her own daughter's.

"Your name, Katherine, and my daughter's being the same makes matters somewhat confusing," said Mrs. Simmons. "Suppose we change it?"

"Oid not moind, mum," replied the girl.

"That's very nice," said the mistress. "How do you like, say, the name of Bridget?"

"Well, mum," returned the domestic, "it's not missin' that's over particular. It's not willing to call th' young leddy any name y'd suggest, mum."

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

Here's some 'Gets-It'. It's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Dreaded An Operation More Than Anything Tried Fruitola and Traxo and Has Never Since Been Troubled With Gall-stones.

Mrs. Mary E. Franse, whose address is West Point, Neb., Box 411, has written to the Pinus laboratories a very strong endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In her letter, Mrs. Franse says: "About ten years ago I was about to undergo an operation for gall-stones when I heard of your medicine. Dreading an operation above everything I determined to try Fruitola and Traxo and have never been sorry I did so, as I have never been troubled with gall-stones since."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, and one dose is usually sufficient to give ample evidence of its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering, and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has been weakened and run down by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milw. St.

I DON'T CARE IF THE ROADS ARE MUDDY—I'M GOING TO TAKE A LONG WALK IN THE COUNTRY!

Just Why Your Hair Falls Out

Alcohol in Hair Tonics, and Missing Hair Elements Always Cause Baldness.

A good many people have never believed that hair could actually be grown on a bald spot. That's because they've used the wrong kind of hair tonic.

The hair on the right has shriveled up from the alcohol in hair tonics—the other hair is vigorous after treatment by Yola-Vita.

cause it has really never been done before. But the way to do it surely and beyond question, has now been discovered.

The new, scientific hair discovery, YOLA-VITA, actually does it. It is no longer a doubt, it is a fact. The hair has been analyzed and is found to contain five vital substances. Unless these are in correct quantities, hair loses its vigor, recedes, and baldness results. When the missing substances are restored, hair quickly begins to change results. YOLA-VITA restores these missing substances so wonderfully that hair quickly begins to grow again, even on shiny bald heads. It dandruff promptly and surely vanishes, and more remarkable still, whether it was black, brown or red—is restored to any gray, faded or bleached hair, without dye or stain. It is a wonderful re-vitalizer of hair roots and color-glands. YOLA-VITA is sold at all drug stores, 11.00 a bottle, or sent direct by Yola-Vita Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Janesville by J. P. Baker, People's Drug Co., Smith Drug Co., Badger Drug Co., Red Cross Pharmacy, W. T. Shier, McCue & Buss.

Something of an Earmark.

A German was summoned to identify a stolen hog. On being asked by the lawyer if the hog had any earmarks, he replied: "The only earmarks dot I saw was his tail was cut off."

Disappearing Trouble.

The only way to rid ourselves of our troubles is to look about us for greater ones that are borne by our neighbors. If we sit around and brood over our misfortunes, they do not vanish, but only hatch out new ones.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain multifused cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multifused cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

THINKS CLEARLY WORKS ACCURATELY

Racine Stenographer Gives Reasons For Her Present Efficiency.

"I was so nervous that I could not make a correct copy and was afraid I would have to give up my work for a while," said Miss Roberta Glen, Racine stenographer, recently. Miss Glen lives at 708 Sixth street, Suite A.

"I had been suffering from this nervousness for some time," she continued, "and this caused my digestion to become impaired. After eating I would have pains in my stomach and gas would cause me to have a choked up feeling. Some nights I would be so restless that I could get no restful sleep and the following morning I would feel simply terrible."

"A close friend, who knew what I was going through with, suggested Tanlac to me. I got a bottle and soon after I started using the medicine I began to improve wonderfully. My nerves got steady. My digestion improved so that I could eat anything without suffering. I now have new energy and feel like working. I am able to think more clearly and can do my work more accurately. Tanlac has helped me more than anything I ever took and I want others to know about it."

It is a well known fact that nothing impairs efficiency so much as bad digestion. It is equally well known that nothing relieves indigestion so thoroughly as Tanlac.

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store. Stop in and see the Tanlac representative.

MERE MAN TO WEAR
GARMENTS OF SILKLast Year They Were Comfortable in Plain Beach Wear But This Summer It Must Be Silk.

(By Margaret Mason.)

If you want to be a model man,
this simple goodness knows,
Just wear a lot of swaggy togs
And strut around and pose.New York, May 12.—Yes, it's true the worm will turn and this summer the silk worm has turned its efforts from the fair to the strenuous. It is terribly busy spinning the wherewithal to clothe "me lord" in a stunning silk summer suit.Last year the summer man seemed cool and content in Palm Beach suits of ordinary summer weave, but this season he sniffs at anything short of silk.Arrived in Tussore or Pongee, he will lay siege to frail hearts and press his suit after it has been well unbowed.He will undoubtedly owe as much to his laundryman as to his tailor for his success sartorially this season—gratitude, I mean, of course, not monies, although perhaps it may be a little of both.The Tussore and Pongee suits are tremendously attractive and also delightfully cool. Not only in the models show coats with pleated backs and half belts.All the boys will vie with belted Bainbridges for the belted coat is quite the thing. Not only in the summer silk models but on coats of serge and light weight tweeds.The belted coats of navy serge will be quite smart for country and outing wear: with trousers of striped white flannel and will cause many a female heart to surge with admiration.But after all, before below and above everything, the silk is the thing.
Silk shirts of heavy tub silk, striped and designed in the newest yellow, orchid, green and porcelain shades are very smart, worn with the soft collars of plain or corded white silk.Among the newest silken scarves those of small patterned foulard and tasteful silk crepe are numbered first in favor.Chasely pure and white are the chosen socks of silk that will adorn the too off clay feet of our masculine idols.The white silk sock will show on the best foot forward in either work or play. In other words it will be worn to meet both business and social ends, although for very dressy occasions a fast black sock keeps it more up with the times.A very smart imported model even goes so far as to show three black clocks, one on each side, and one right over the center of the instep. Need less to say, this pair is decidedly striking.Plenty of silk will be on many hands also, for the silk glove, pearl grey or champagne colored, suited in black, will be much worn, as well as the glaze kid gloves that have been made to wash as beautifully as the long worn chambray ones.Verily it seems to portend a busy season indeed for the silk worm and the laundress. Everything being silk and washable, Sylvester may almost safely take his tub attire in full silk regalia.Anyway, there will be as little good excuse for soiled masculine garments this summer as for soiled masculine reputations.LUSITANIA SURVIVOR GIVES UP BUSINESS TO AID BLIND SOLDIERS

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kessler.

George A. Kessler, a Lusitania survivor, has decided to give up his business to direct the handling of the fund for the blinded soldiers of France, Belgium and Great Britain. He is an officer and founder of the Permanent Blind Relief War Fund. Mrs. Kessler will also aid the cause, not only by giving money, but by personal effort.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, May 11.—Mr. and Mrs.
Andrew Simonson are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy that came to their home on Wednesday night.

All are reported as doing well.
Sam Egdvold of Janesville was in the village on Thursday on professional business.

"Mother's Day" will be fittingly commemorated at the M. E. church next Sunday by a sermon and music appropriate to the occasion. The public are invited.

Miss Ethel Compton is at Mercy hospital at Janesville where she underwent a serious operation on Wednesday morning; she is reported as doing as well as can be expected.

On Tuesday while two of Ole Sta-ven's children were playing with a lawn mower, in the front yard, one of the little fellows fell in front of the revolving knives with the result that one hand was caught in the knives and the thumb completely severed.
Medical aid was called and the little fellow made as comfortable as possible.

The amount of milk that is being sent to the Borden Milk Company at Monroe, is on the increase, and on Thursday a representative of the company arrived in the village with the expectation of remaining for some time and making the acquaintance of the farmers and business men and looking to the ultimate establishment of a condensing plant here.

Jessie Honeysett has commenced

Said Dan, and Dan is truthful, he has got a rep that's straight, "our bloomin' horse sure gets my goat, he is an awful skate; I fear the humane officer each time I float in sight, of course he does not see the horse, still I'm obsessed with fright, but Dobbin never is exposed—he's covered to his ears, he's blanketed from head to hoof, he's been so many years. The blankets dull the rattle of his bones in winter's cold, and keeps the X-ray negative within the blanket's fold;
in summer's heat and sunshine to expose him then would mean that where our props once held him up, he'd vanish from the scene." One day Dan came home in a rush, and said, "Say, sister dear, I have for you consoling words—a ponderous line of cheer, your husband now has come across and taken your advice, so thoughtful this has been of him, I'm sure you'll think him nice, he's traded 'stack of bones' at last—unloaded him at par, some auto guy took 'has been' in part payment for a car. 'It listens good,'
the sister said, 'It sounds like gangs'
of luck, my husband is some business

Dan now wears a shanty—with a brick

TO ASK FOR A PARDON
FOR JOHN F. DIETZ IS
THE REPORT AT MADISON

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., May 12.—That John F. Dietz, the hero of Cameron dam, will not be given a pardon by this administration, is indicated by the talks of close friends of Governor Philipp.
Information has been received from Winter that an application for Dietz's pardon is soon to be filed before Governor Philipp. So far no application has been received, but one of the attorneys interested in Dietz' behalf has written the executive office to secure permission to examine all of the Dietz records and testimony on file in the executive office.

Governor McGovern reduced the sentence of Dietz to twenty years after a long petition, the longest ever received at the executive office, had been placed before him. Some of the friends of Philipp, including members of the board of control, have expressed the opinion that Dietz was dealt with fairly by Governor McGovern and there is no reason for reducing the sentence further.

REPORT THAT CHINESE
REBELS HAVE AEROPLANES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Peking, May 12.—Much uneasiness has been caused in Peking by insistent rumors that the revolutionists have constructed a number of aeroplanes in Yunnan province and have purchased flying machines from abroad, which they intend to use in attacking government troops throughout the southern provinces. The central government already has several flying machines on duty along the Yangtze river, and has four machines at the aviation school near Peking.

Recently the department of military affairs has issued instructions to provincial officials concerning the protection of their districts against aeroplanes. The instructions provide that a search shall be made throughout the mountains and forests to discover the possible hiding places for aeroplanes. It has ordered that watch towers be built on high hills for the purpose of observing approaching aeroplanes, and roofs of all important buildings and all watch towers are to be covered with cotton with water to a depth of six inches.

The Virgin Birth of Jesus

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D.D.
Dean of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—Behold a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel, which, being interpreted, is, God with us.—Matthew 1:23.

The blessed season of the year has approached again when, in a peculiar sense, we contemplate the nativity of our Lord and Savior. The fact that there is no certainty as to the exact month, or day of the month when he was born, will never militate against the observance of the 25th of December as Christmas day. Would that it were observed with more reverence than it is, and with more thought of him than of Santa Claus, the pagan god, in whose name the world passes round its gifts. Nevertheless, it is of him that his people think, and they are glad of a special opportunity to press his name and his claims upon all who will give heed to them.

Was He Born of a Virgin?
It is the feature of his virgin birth that our text emphasizes, and that we have chosen to dwell upon in this discourse. Some of the destructive critics of the Bible as they are called, deny this. They are those who would empty it of the supernatural altogether and hence destroy faith in it as a divine revelation. Why they deny it is simply because they do not want to believe it. They have no proof to the contrary, but have just made up their minds that it is not so. Our proof is the statements of the Bible. The earliest promise of a redeemer in Genesis 3:15 foreshadows it. The prophet Isaiah predicts it in chapter 7 of his prophecy at verses 14, and both Matthew in this place, and Luke in the first chapter of his Gospel, verses 26-35, corroborate it.

Of course, it need not have been so. We do not say that God might not have brought his son into the world some other way, and that he still might have accomplished redemption for us; but if we question the record at this point, we make it liable to be questioned at any point, and then the door is opened to deny Christ and to deny redemption altogether.

Reasonableness of It.
When you come to think of it why should not the Son of God have been born in just this way? If he were a pre-existent Divine Person as we know him to be, then some kind of a birth were necessary. It must have been by natural generation or of a virgin, and how could it have been in the natural way on account of sin? Jesus must be sinless to be a Savior of sinners, and how could he be sinless unless he had a virgin birth?

Oh, what a mystery this is! God clothing himself with our nature—that is the meaning of "Immanuel." And yet while the two natures in Christ are united they are not identical. There was a time simply when deity became man, it was not so eternally. And yet notwithstanding this union there is no human nature in God. Men are by nature human and only human, for there was only one incarnation of the divine, and that was Christ.

Meaning of the Two Natures.
But it was necessary that Christ should be human, else how otherwise could he have sympathized with us in our infirmity, and borne our sins in his own body on the tree? And it was necessary that he should have been divine, for how otherwise could his death have had sufficient efficacy for such redemption?

Oh, who will receive him today by faith as the divine-human Savior? This is to know the peace and joy of salvation, and to enter upon the new year no longer as a servant of sin but as a servant of righteousness and of God.

And was there ever greater urgency than now to do this? The awful commotion in the world cannot be without meaning for the future; and perhaps the very near future.

But it is not only in the likelihood of sudden death to thousands upon thousands of our fellow men that we find urgency for this appeal, but in an event of much greater moment that stands back of all these things, and that is the coming of our Lord. He who came the first time as a babe and cradled in a manger, will come the second time, as the glorified Son of God and riding upon the clouds of heaven. He came before to save, he will come again to judge. "Unto them that look for him shall be appear the second time without sin unto salvation," as we read in Hebrews 2:28. But unto them not looking for him, but instead, crying "Peace and Safety," i. e. peace and safety in the world's methods of bringing it about, will find "sudden destruction coming upon them, as travail upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape." We read this in Paul's second letter to the Thessalonians at the fifth chapter. Would to God that more would read it, and believe it.

Second Quarter. Lesson VII. Acts XIII 13-15:42-52. May 14, 1916.

"LO! WE TURN TO THE GEN. TILES."

The rapid movement of St. Luke's narrative, so in harmony with the swift course of events, is its characteristic charm. Two lines suffice to carry the first missionary journey away over the Pisidian Mountains into the heart of Asia Minor. They have passed barriers that even Alexander the Great found almost insurmountable. Here were the bridgeless torrents and brigand-infested defiles, which Paul afterward referred to as "perils of waters" and "perils of robbers." They have reached their goal, the Pisidian Antioch, the populous city on the highway between Ephesus and the Cilician gates. Here are some Jews of the Dispersion, a trafficking colony. Their synagogue is the rendezvous also of a considerable company of God-fearing Gentiles of high rank. The toils and perils of the journey are forgotten at sight of this virgin field untouched by the ecclesiasticism of Jerusalem.

Well may Paul rise to the occasion. He may have called this "great sermon." It is the germ-cell from which thirteen Pauline epistles are afterwards evolved. Israel's history is foreshortened: election of the fathers; captivity, wilderness, Canaan, Saul, David—all this to pave the way for the final affirmation; namely, the advent of Israel's Hope in Jesus of Nazareth. The very rejection of the Messiah is shown to be strong reason for accepting him, for this very rejection was matter of prophecy. The authorities fulfilled the prediction in condemning Jesus. Faith in his substituted suffering justifies as the law can not. This incomparable sermon, which furnishes a canon of rhetorical and logical discourse, and in which one fairly sees the mental processes of the great metaphysician, closes with a tender appeal and a faithful warning.

In this Hebrew colony in Antioch of Pisidia like the others in commercial centers of Asia Minor, Judaism had a "second probation." The gospel came to them de novo. Far from the scene of its original rejection it was quite possible for these provincial Jews to accept even a Messiah that had been discarded at Jerusalem. Would they do it? Their destiny quivered in the balance. Alas! They did not recognize the providential purpose in their election; how God intended that they should be a channel of grace to others, so that in them all nations might be blessed. They thought grace began and ended in Israel. Their racial prejudice and vanity were superlative and consuming. So on the next Sabbath when they saw their synagogue packed and profaned with a motley throng which had no special reverence for their traditions; when they heard turn-coat Jews inviting uncircumcised heathen to share on equal terms with them the advantages of the Messiah's kingdom, they were seized with a blind rage. Then and there Judaism was lost in its second probation. In the tumult the apostles self-contained like judges issued their edict of reprobation and sustained it with the Scripture of the Hebrews themselves.

In contrast to these envious and dissenting Jews shine the glad and believing Gentiles. The exiled apostles departed, but they left behind them a church, the characteristic of which was joy, an ever-winning trait.

The storm only sufficed to wait the gospel seed over mountains and valleys to Iconium.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
The vexed question of election and reprobation seems to crop out here. "As many as were ordained to eternal life believed." It may be said that it is improbable that St. Luke would insert a dogmatic statement in the natural current of his narrative. The text may be read "As many as were inclined to eternal life offered themselves to Jesus." Opposition has its uses. It is always preferable to the peace of the grave-yard. St. Paul actually numbers it among advantages when he speaks of "a great door and many adversaries." No kite ascends unless the wind blows against it. Woman's influence has been wielded both for and against religion. The preponderance is for, but there is not wanting a minority which has used its subtle spell against. Among these are the "devout and honorable women" of Antioch. As in the case of the modern minister would like to learn the secret of large audiences from these missionaries. They had two audiences, one inside and the other an overflow. Perhaps there was pastoral work between Sundays. House-going preachers make church-going people. As in the case of Israel, so today God has his favorites among nations and individuals. God is still electing, foreordaining, predestinating some people, collectively and individually, to peculiar "advantages." But in this he is guided by infinitely just and holy principles. He does not gather where he has not strewn. Where much is given, much is required. He who knows and does not shall be beaten with many stripes. He who knows not (comparatively) shall be beaten with few. There is revelation of the divine purpose in all elections and instances of apparent partiality. The Jews were God's favorites only that through them he might shine upon the Gentiles. So every apparent favorite of Providence today is only one who is called to be an almoner of grace to others less favored. The tolerance of intolerance is aptly described as the finest and most Christ-like flower of the spirit of toleration. The homely proverb applies "Proof of pudding is eating." The apostles left behind them at Antioch a church "full of joy and the Holy Ghost." In spite of freely acknowledged human defects, resulting at times in intolerance, heresy and schism, the effects of Christianity, in the long run and world-wide, are its defense and justification.

WHAT DOES CHRIST WANT US TO DO?

(Union Meeting With Juniors.)

If the act of a little child on his first errand to the grocery is analyzed, the elements which constitute obedience of every kind will be discovered. It is essentially an act of Faith. The child believes the grocer has the object desired and will exchange it for the bit of money in his hand. He believes it because his mother says so. Again and chiefly it is an act of love. He goes the errand because he loves the one who sends him. The very same elements will be found in the noblest act of which the rational soul is capable, namely, obedience to Christ. The thing whatever it is is undertaken in faith. The fact that it is the Lord's will suffices in every instance. The believer says, "The Lord commands it. He knows my powers. If I could not do it he would not ask it." Again and chiefly it is undertaken in love of the Master. "I love Him! I will do it!" exclaims the disciple. It is the Master's pleasure to lift his followers to the plane of friendship. The servant is upon the lower plane where he cannot know what his lord doeth, but the friend does. Jesus says "Go!" but before we start he invites us into his council chamber and shows us the reason for our going.

MONROE HAS STRONG NINE FOR GAME HERE

Among Their Pitchers Is Franks, Who Defeated the Janesville Club Last Season.

Monroe will have a strong team to line up against the Cardinals on Sunday, when baseball is officially opened in this city. Weather man permitting, and it will be remembered that the Green county champions slipped one over on the Janesville club last year by the score of 2 to 0. Franks, the star pitcher for the Cardinals last year, is with them again, and this little beaver alone beat the Cardinals a year ago. Besides Franks, the Monroe team has two other mound men who are from the Cardinals.

Manager Franks of the Pirates has collected a prize bunch of players for his team this summer. And they are out to start their season with a victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals will not have their full strength in the field until the proposed fund is raised and the players are tried out. Interest is taken in the success that Pete Fleming will have as a pitcher against the Pirates. Among amateur teams he was a steady winner and now that he is going to branch out against stronger clubs, the test will be a severe one. There will be four pitchers here for the game Sunday, according to Manager George Caldwell, and if Fleming falls down English, the ex-Federator will be sent to the mound. Here's hoping the services of Fleming will not be needed and that Fleming shows enough to tame the Pirates from Monroe.

SEVEN HUNDRED ENTERED IN ILLINOIS HIGH MEET

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Urbana, Ill., May 12.—Nearly seven hundred entries have been announced for the University of Illinois' high school meet May 13 and most of the star prep athletes from all over the state have been named for it. Leaders of the region high school polo vaulter and jumper, Dunne, son of the governor, who will represent Springfield in dashes and discus; Powers, a sprinter from Decatur; Loomis, of Oregon High and a number of the best performers from Chicago schools will take part.

The prep meet will be one of a series of important athletic games between Illinois and Chicago and Illinois and Indiana and the annual outdoor track meet between Maroons and Illinois.

Four ball players walked into a soda fountain emporium at Fort Worth and sat at the table provided for free spenders. "Give me a lemon sundae with nuts," ordered one of the players. "One southpaw sundae," yelled the clerk.

CO-EDS BASEBALL TEAM TRAINING AT OHIO "U"

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Columbus, O., May 12.—Co-eds of the Ohio state university have taken up baseball. Today the co-eds are in the midst of spring training and the league is being formed.

Twice a week the co-ed squad of forty girls crowd the varsity ball team off the school diamond for a batting bee and run 'round the bases. "The tomboys show up best," said Miss Margaret Hammett, coach. "They can throw straight and aren't afraid to stand up to the plate. The average girl, however, badly as she may bat or throw, knows how to coach."

CUBS BEAT BRAVES; SOX LOSE TO YANKS

Zimmerman Gets Fifty Dollar Fine for Run-in With Umpire—Umpire Feud Also in Sox Game.

Jim Vaughn, whom Boston drove from the slab Wednesday, "came back" Thursday and pitched shut-out ball against the Braves, two Chicago errors in the ninth helping over the visitors' sole run. The score was 3 to 1. Good hitting of Rudolph by Williams, whose three hits included a home run and a double, and Zimmerman and Saier, produced three Cub runs. Zimmerman was notified of a $50 fine for arguing with Umpire Byron Wednesday.

Scottie Bombardment. New York, May 11.—New York won its first game from Chicago here Thursday, 2 to 1. Collop, formerly of the Kansas City Federals, outpitched Eber. Umpire Nalin ordered Mogridge, Mullen and Markle of the New York team off the field in the sixth inning, and a spectator bounced a bottle off the Yankees' concrete dugout. A shower of glass fell all around the umpire. President Johnson of the American league saw the incident.

OPENING GAME WILL BE PLAYED AT WHITEWATER

Whitewater baseball fans are anxiously awaiting the opening of the baseball season in that town next Sunday, when the Port Atkinson Central State league team meets the team of that place. The Whitewater team has one of the strongest aggregations in the league, and with Hank Goode as captain will undoubtedly burn up the circuit. In Dodge they have one of the greatest twirlers in the league, and he was practically responsible for the team's victory over the Port Atkinson last Sunday. The mayor of the town will pitch the first ball next Sunday.

FOUR GAMES SCHEDULED IN GRADE SCHOOL LEAGUE FOR TOMORROW MORNING

Tomorrow morning the grade school baseball nines will be in action again for their second games of the season. Each contest will be called at ten o'clock. The St. Patrick's will meet the St. Mary's nine at the Fourth ward park diamond. The Washington school will play the Jefferson team at Tallman's lots. The Douglas school will cross bats with the Lincoln nine at the viaduct, and the Garfield-Webster game will be played at the Gunds' lots in the Fourth ward.

NATIONAL SKAT TOURNAMENT IN MILWAUKEE IN JULY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—Details for the big national skat tournament to be held at the Auditorium July 8, 9, 10, and rapidly being completed, and according to Secretary O. E. Schwemer at least 4,000 players will compete.

Five hundred individual prizes amounting to $12,500 will be offered. The first prize will be $1,000. The admittance fee will be $5, which will cover all incidentals during the convention.

J. Charles Eichhorn, Detroit, has informed the committee in charge that at least 100 players will attend from that city. Several other large cities have signified their intentions of sending large delegations.

FOOTBALL WORKOUTS TO BE HELD AT H. S.

Mass meeting of Boys Held This Afternoon at High School to Take Up Spring Football.

Janesville high school will have spring football this year, a good sized squad will report for workouts. This afternoon a mass meeting of the boys was held and E. B. Keck, who coached basketball, laid down the plans which will be followed out. For the past four years the local high school has had losing teams to represent the school, and it is thought by the authorities that new methods should be taken.

E. J. Phillips, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and with quite a little football experience, has been engaged at the high school for next year. Mr. Phillips will have work in the commercial department and will also take charge of the football team with Mr. Keck. Spring football training at the local school is a new thing and it is thought that the form of athletics at this time of the year, that a great deal of interest will be taken. The outcome of the spring turnout will probably be the answer of whether the Janesville high school will have a football team at all for next year. If it is successful the prospects for next year will be bright. With a change in the coaching system it is thought that Janesville's losing streak in football will be dropped and the old days of a championship team will come back.

INDIANAPOLIS PRINTERS' BALL TOURNAMENT IN AUGUST

Indianapolis, May 12.—Indianapolis printers have already begun preparations to handle the printers' baseball tournament to be held here Aug. 12 to 14. Carl Wolfe and Lenner Roper, members of the local printers' union, have been placed in charge of the work of financing the tournament. The organization plans to raise about $8,000 with which to entertain visitors.

Teams will be entered in the tournament from St. Louis, St. Paul, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. Hundreds of visitors are expected here in addition to the players. The national convention of the printers will be held in Baltimore the week of the tournament and it is believed that many of the delegates will start from their homes early and stop off here on their way to Baltimore.

MONROE IS COMING STRONG FOR CARDINAL GAME SUNDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Monroe, Wis., May 12.—The Monroe Pirates will open the season at Janesville next Sunday afternoon, according to Manager Earl Franks. An effort is being made on the part of local fans to organize a booster trip to Janesville, getting as large a number as possible of the owners of automobiles to make the trip and take with them their friends. It is believed it will be an incentive to the local players and at the same time will bring a large number of Janesville people here to witness the return game later in the season. Manager Franks has some very promising material for a team this year and it is believed an aggregation can be organized which will bring many scalps to the city. There are a number of semi-professional players working in the city at the present time who will have places on the team. The season promises to be a good one in baseball in Monroe.

EDDIE O'DONNELL OF WHITEWATER MAY NOT START IN N. Y. RACE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) New York, May 12.—Qualifying trials of cars entered in the Metropolitan trophy 150 mile events to be staged at Longbeach Bay speedway Saturday afternoon will be held today. Each car must show ninety miles an hour to be allowed to start in the big contest for the $20,000 in prizes.

Eddie O'Donnell is Dusenberry, in which he expected to give the winner battle, may not start. The car is lost in a railroad express car somewhere between California and here.

If they do arrive in time he may drive a Delage.

The announcement by President Charles Weegham of the Chicago Cubs that a system of flags hung from prominent buildings in the business center of Chicago, will be used in the future to notify fans of the section whether the game will be played as scheduled each day might well be copied by club owners in other big league cities. Newspaper offices and other information distributing centers are frequently besieged by those who do not care unless they are reasonably certain that the teams will play.

MORRIS MILLER

The sum of $7,000 which Stanford university students are endeavoring to raise in order to send the varsity crew and track team east this spring appears at first sight to be a large amount of money for the purpose. When it is considered, however, that at least twenty-five athletes will have to make the round trip of 7,000 miles the sum does not loom so big against the transportation and board bills for a period of a month or more.

"Freddie" Welsh, delegate-at-large of the lightweight division, is in a dilemma. His usually tranquil existence has been cut in upon and his steps are continually shadowed by three figures. Wherever he goes the names of three contenders seem to bound and rebound against his sensitive ear drums. He hears continually "Benny" Leonard, "Charley" White and Johnny Dundee. The public is clamoring for Welsh to defer his title. He must select one of these three challengers for his opponent. They all loom ominously in his path. Which one of the three will he decide to meet first? That's the question!

Naturally, "Freddie" would like to pick the easiest—the one against whom he figures to have the best chance. At the same time all three appear so dangerous that he wants a goodly portion of the coin of the realm to venture into the ring against any one of them. He has been offered $15,000, win lose or draw, to fight Leonard in a championship tilt. Yet Welsh hesitates. He hasn't raised the ante. He hasn't set any specified amount but he says that $15,000 isn't enough.

If "Freddie" is wise he will come into the open in the immediate future and announce that he will box one out of the three in a championship bout. If he continues to stall and wriggle his way out of a match with one of them the public will no longer lend its support to Welsh's purse. He may continue to hold the coveted crown, but it won't be worth its weight in gold much longer. Or "Freddie" can retire now.

Joe Benz has had to get in condition twice this spring. He was almost right when the Sox arrived south, having beat them to the barrier nearly two weeks. After a time of being in the pink of condition, he was seized with a bad cold on the chest, which gradually drew his strength away. The cold seemed to hang on and hang on. "It's just a Texas cold," said a sympathizer, but this did not tend to raise his spirits or bring back his strength. "I don't care whether I get it in Texas or Illinois, it's a cold," was Joe's reply.

College women of New York city and adjacent places are about to launch the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, the object of which, according to the announcement, is "the furnishing of exercise and recreation to college women in or near New York, under inexpensive and congenial conditions."

Manager Pat Moran, of the Phillies, is said to be after Captain Watt of Columbia university.

Prof. Warren Robinson, one of the most prominent teachers in the state school for the deaf here, has received a communication from President Persival Hall that the college of which he is the head, namely Gallaudet college, Washington, D. C., has recently conferred on Prof. Robinson the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters. The notification received by the professor contained the information that this distinction was bestowed on him in recognition of his untiring endeavors to promote and advance the cause of literary and industrial education and the general welfare of the deaf. The professor is one of five others west of Chicago to receive this degree. He was also told that his diploma would be forwarded to him immediately after college commencement, which occurs June 21. He was invited to call at the college and receive the papers any time prior to that date should he be in the vicinity. Mr. Robinson has associated himself with the press in various ways, being a lover of the art of writing. He would undoubtedly date more time to his talent were he not so taken up with his present occupation among his pupils. The state school will close earlier this season than last, the date being set for June 7.
